 Barker Steblein

*Project manager/civil engineer
 LaBella Associates DPC*

Age: 39

Education: B.S., civil engineering, Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

Family: Husband, Michael

Residence: Charlotte

Professional responsibilities: I'm a professional engineer and project manager. I work on municipal and utility projects for a variety of clients. I complete engineering reviews of projects for local municipalities, assist with MS4 programs and provide construction phase administrative services. I'm also a subject matter expert in stormwater regulations and permitting.

Professional and community leadership: Member, Advisory Committee and Grants Committee, NextGen Rochester; variety of positions, Society of Women Engineers; former president, Rochester Engineering Society; panelist, Cool Women/Hot Jobs, Young Women's College Prep; member, Women Build Team, Flower City Habitat for Humanity

Bringing about change in Rochester: Being a member of NextGen Rochester allows contributions to the community both financially and as a volunteer, with opportunities in education, poverty, downtown revitalization and community engagement. I believe in leading by example; NextGen will provide this opportunity for all young philanthropists to make an impact on our community.

Surprising fact: I'm a devoted fan of professional bull riding. I was thrilled when the PBR BlueDef tour stopped in Rochester in September—it was my first live event! My husband and I plan to attend the Built Ford Tough World Finals in Las Vegas in the future.
